

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENTAUTOMOTIVECHINAFEATUREDGLOBALHEALTH AND BEYONDLIFESTYLEMONEYPOLITICSSCIENCE AND BEYONDSPORTSTECHNOLOGYUNITED STATESCELEBRITYYou are here: Home » Anne Z. Cooke: Bountiful Yountville: The Epic Journey Begins

Anne Z. Cooke: Bountiful Yountville: The Epic Journey Begins

MAY 23, 2013 5:01 AM 0 COMMENTS

VIEWS: 2

If California wines still baffle — so many labels! — you might want to spend a weekend in Yountville, on Route 29 in Napa Valley. A village by this city boy's standards, it's 12 blocks long and four blocks wide, perched on a bit of real estate smaller than 1200 acres. Washington Street bisects the town, and 3,480 happy souls depend on tourists and the wine that brings them there.

City-bred and fed up with freeway traffic, I headed there recently, expecting to “motor” down quaint country lanes and amongst picturesque hills and valleys. I'd stop at friendly tasting rooms, savor various vintages and carry away as many bottles as the trunk could handle. With speeding meteors and dictators' missiles disturbing my nights, the plan to amass a sizeable stash of robust cabernet and mellow merlot had a certain appeal.

Then I arrived — with friends in tow — to find that while the latest census might call Yountville a village, it's a village on steroids, or a city in miniature, depending on your point of view. Everything a wine-searcher could want is there in one place, within walking distance. “You don't need a car at all,” said the bell boy at the Vintage Inn, who was leaning against the reception desk enjoying a good joke. “Just park it over there in the back; you can walk everywhere,” he told us, cheerfully hefting our suitcases onto a cart and vanishing in the

Enter your email address:

RECENT POSTS

- Motorsports: BMW confirms M4 DTM for next season
- Official: Volkswagen reveals new 296-hp Golf R

direction of our rooms.

So walk we did, passing a half dozen tasting rooms, Michelin-starred restaurants (Yountville boasts a total of five stars, or is it six?), the Villagio Inn & Spa, Bouchon Restaurant and bakery, a large and thriving vegetable garden, Napa Style (a must-see kitchen and comestibles emporium), Redd Wood pasta and pizza, art galleries and fashion shops. Did I mention the flowers? Tulips, daffodils, poppies, daisies, peonies and ten-foot tall camellia bushes competed for space; blue wisteria draped over arbors and fences. Very California is Yountville, where flowers bloom in every season.

Our travel credo being “a peaceful night makes the next day bright,” we booked rooms in the aforementioned Vintage Inn, the town’s first purpose-built visitor lodgings, built in 1985 on 23 centrally located acres. “Central,” was our first criteria, followed by a pool and hot tub for late-night soaking. But the deal-maker was a buffet breakfast and omelette station, included in the room price. An initial inspection of the proposed digs, a second-floor room with king bed, puffy quilt, shamefully large tub, two balconies, a fireplace and coffee nook, decided the matter.

- Israel will make 'dramatic decisions' for peace, negotiator says
- Deadline nears for Solow's $4B plan to build on vacant lot
- Rights group urges Gaza's Hamas to halt executions
- Starchitect Ismael Leyva sells CPW condo for $7.5M
- Analysis: Egypt crackdown may not crush Brotherhood
- The iPhone 5C Isn't For The US; It's The iPhone For The Rest Of The World
- The Vikings were not the first colonizers of the Faroe Islands
- Groovy New 'X-Men: Days Of Future Past' Set Pictures Tweeted As Shooting Wraps
- American al Qaeda militant urges attacks on U.S. diplomats
- Samsung Users More Fond Of Apps, More Open To Ads, And More Like iOS Users Than Those Of Other Android OEMs
- Queens' High Line project moves forward
- Has Egypt brought back Mubarak's police state?
- WATCH: Todd Bridges On Healing From Sexual Abuse
- Author Elmore Leonard Dead at 87
- James Franco Teases "New TV Series About Art," Channels Mona Lisa in Instagram Pic
- Beyond Holiday Inn: Upscale hotel projects flood Brooklyn
- Rihanna Updates Her Pixie Haircut to A Mullet
- Lily Tomlin May Marry!

TAGS

Airline, Apps Biology & Nature Children
Companies Crime Earth & Climate Economies
economy Education entertainment news
Europe Gadgets General
Discussion gold Google Haley Longman
Hotel humor Immediately available to public Jillian Kirby Kristen Kraemer
Liberals/Democrats/Left Middle East mobile NBA

As for the wine project, we tasted and bought our first two cabernets at a place in town. But what to do about our main mission, a look at Napa Valley's vineyards and quaint country roads? Enter the concierge. "Most of those wineries don't allow drop-in customers," said Concierge Christina Richardson, presiding over a desk in the Vintage Inn's lounge. "You have to have appointments," she explained. "And you can't visit Far Niente at all." Far Niente, my former boss's favorite winery, was the only name I could think of. "But," she added, with a conspiratorial smile, "I just might be able to make a reservation for you at Nickel & Nickel. It's under the same owners. Let me call them. I've been going to lots of tastings lately," she confessed. "It's my chance to learn all about wine."

Handing us a map of the 199 wineries in the Napa Valley – most I'd never heard of – she explained that the better wineries not only require a reservation, they also charge a per person fee: typically $25. But remember, that fee pays for two hours with an wine connoisseur who conducts a tour of the winery, then pours a "flight," of five or six wines which he helps you to compare and evaluate. And in some places, like Frog's Leap, you're welcome to sit all afternoon and enjoy the country scenery. So, ready at last, with four appointments in hand, we retrieved the car and were off, to Hess (on rustic Mount Veeder!), to Nickel & Nickel (exclusive, welcoming, organized), to Frogs Leap (casual, fun), and to Cakebread (join a group and wait your turn).

News News Article News Stories from ALIPAC

Members New York New York City NY

News Obama Obama's America Other

Topics News and Issues

Phil's Favorites Physics & Chemistry

Social Special Section startups TC

Uncategorized US News Video Videos

CATEGORIES

- Arts & Entertainment
- Automotive
- Celebrity
- China
- Featured
- Global
- Health and Beyond
- jobs
- Lifestyle
- Media
- Money
- Politics
- Science and Beyond
- Shen Yun
- Sports
- Technology
- Trading
- Travel

Later Christina – whose kindness and know-how “made” our mission a success, booked “his and her” massages-plus-aroma bath treatments at the Spa Villagio, next door to the Village Inn, a marathon of kneading, oiling, bubbly bath water and open-air soaks. The one and one-half hour session confirmed the old saw that “the couple that plays together, stays together.” She also made reservations for dinner at Bottega (good food, annoyingly pompous waiter), and pasta at Redd Wood (fresh veggies, scumptious sauce, lively atmosphere).

Why didn't we eat at the famous French Laundry? They were booked up for the next six months. But Bouchon had a cancellation at lunchtime, which became the trip's culinary highlight. We started with onion soup (the genuine article), and went on to Salade Maraichere au Chevre Chaud (green salad), Truit Amandine (trout), fresh bread, famous Pomme Frites (French fries) and a dry white wine, faultlessly served.

United States

RECENT COMMENTS

- andrew767 on Canadian Bikes 7,500 Miles to Spotlight 'World's Most Forgotten Conflict'
- underthewire on Nidal Hasan Trial Details: 8-2-13: Verdict Must Be Unanimous or Two-Thirds Vote of the Jury Panel – Panel Must Outrank Hasan
- Mark on Carol Evans: Work Flexibility Has Become a Revolution in 2013
- Dev Kumar on Bajaj Launches Discover 125T Priced At Rs. 52,500/-
- theyenguy on Bond Bubble Threatens Global Financial System – BOE's Haldane

Did we fill the trunk with wine? Not quite, but we did buy select labels, complex for the nose and smooth on the tongue. A few were reputed to improve with age, the sort of vintage years you store in the cellar and crack open when your toddler graduates from college. Inspired by Christina, at the Vintage Inn (vintageinn.com) I decided I want to learn more. Now I envisage this new-found hobby the way I imagine bird watching might be; a distant trip with binoculars and a checklist. I've now checked off nine Napa wineries; just 190 to go. An epic journey begins.

Call the Vintage Inn at (800)351-1133 or go to www.vintageinn.com. For Yountville, visit Yountville.com. For Napa Valley information, see napavalley.com.

Novice taster Anne Z. Cooke no longer drinks Two-Buck Chuck.

Photographer courtesy of Steve Haggerty/ColorWorld.

Original link: http://www.huffingtonpost.com/anne-z-cooke/bountiful-yountville-the-b\_3321341.html?utm\_hp\_ref=travel

You might enjoy reading:

Swedish Athletes Sport Rainbow Nails In Moscow

2014 Mitsubishi Outlander Diesel Confirmed For

Shahrukh Khan To Talk About KTM Motorcycles!

Kim Kardashian — The Big Reveal ... First Pics Since...

The End of Policy